Specify the study plan I plan on learning more about sociology at Soka Ikeda College. I have long been interested in poverty issues in developing countries, so I have studied and deepened my understanding of what is needed to solve such poverty issues at the university where I am enrolled. In the process, I have realized that poverty issues are becoming more serious due to the complex intertwining of various social problems. Therefore, I plan to study sociology to understand such social problems structurally and to consider how we can recognize and lead to solutions to poverty issues. I would also like to see and learn about the Indian economy, which continues to grow rapidly, with my own eyes, and link this to my own understanding of poverty issues. Then I learned that Soka Ikeda College was established as a place for poor women of rural people to study. As I studied poverty in developing countries, I wanted to contribute to improving the status of the socially vulnerable, especially women and children. Therefore, I would like to think about things from the viewpoint of people suffering from problems and how I can be involved in such problems at Soka Ikeda College, where I can actually meet such women and their families, interact with them directly, and learn together with them. Moreover, I want to make many friends and have a lot of conversations in order to get a better understanding of the Tamil language. For this purpose, I will take many courses on Tamil language and study hard. Through this exchange program, I would like to develop my career so that I can grow into a more compassionate person and give back to society what I have learned.
